FACULTY NEWS

We recently welcomed five new faculty colleagues: Christopher L. Blakesley, formerly the J.Y. Sanders Chair and Professor of Law, and now Professor Emeritus, at the Paul M. Hebert Law Center, Louisiana State University; Katherine R. Kruse, formerly a Clinical Associate Professor of Law at the University of Wisconsin Law School and a Visiting Associate Professor of Law and Acting Director of the Criminal Justice Clinic at the Washington College of Law, American University; Robert M. Lawless, formerly the Earl F. Nelson Professor of Law at the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law; Roberta (Bobbie) Studwell, formerly the Associate Dean of Library and Information Services and a Professor of Law at the Thomas M. Cooley Law School; and David B. Thronson, formerly an Acting Assistant Professor of Lawyering at the New York University School of Law. Two more new colleagues, Sylvia Lazos and Jean Sternlight, both currently at the University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law, will join us in the coming months.

We also welcome back Lynne Henderson who visited for a year at the University of California at Davis School of Law.

Raquel Aldana-Pindell's article "The 9/11 'National Security' Cases: Three Principles Guiding Judges' Decision-Making," has been accepted for publication by the Oregon Law Review as part of the Seventh Annual LatCrit Symposium. At the May 2002 LatCrit Symposium in Portland, Raquel presented another paper, "In Vindication of Victims' Rights in the Criminal Process for State-Sponsored Crimes" which has been accepted for publication in the Vanderbilt Journal of Transnational Law. Raquel also has forthcoming in the Human Rights Quarterly: "An Emerging Universality of Victims' Rights in the Criminal Process for State-Sponsored Crimes" and a review of MARGARET POPKIN, PEACE WITHOUT JUSTICE: OBSTACLES TO BUILDING THE RULE OF LAW IN EL SALVADOR (2000). In April 2002, Raquel presented "The Civil Rights Concerns of 9/11 Related Detainees in U.S. Prisons" at the 2002 District Conference of the U.S. District Court for the District of Nevada, in Reno.

Annette Appell presented "Responding to the Needs of Individual Children" during a conference at Loyola University, Chicago titled Rush to Judgment? The Legal, Ethical and Psychological Issues in Adoption and Other Permanent Placements in July. In May, Annette presented "Maternal Virtues of the Parental Rights Doctrine" as part of the Cornell Law School Feminism and Legal Theory Project and University of Buffalo Baldy Center for Law & Social Policy Workshop on Feminism and Child Protection: Tensions & Possibilities. Annette is also the Principal Investigator of the Nevada Child and Family Services Title IV-E Curriculum Development Implementation Grant, "Adoption with Contact Statutes: Origins and Outcomes," presented at the Nevada DCFS Project Symposium in Las Vegas in September. Annette has three articles forthcoming in the Adoption Quarterly: "Safe Havens to Abandon Babies, Part I: The Law," "Safe Havens to Abandon Babies, Part II: The Fit," and "Safe Havens to Abandon Babies, Part III: The Effects."

Chris Blakesley's article "Terrorism and Anti-Terrorism in Law, Literature, and Reality" has been accepted for publication by the University of Miami Law Review. His review essay "International Criminal Law" has been accepted for publication by the American Journal of International Law. He also has two book chapters at press: "The Modern Blood Feud: Thoughts on the Philosophy of Crimes Against Humanity," in 2 INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW: ORIGINS, CHALLENGES, AND PROSPECTS, and "Criminal Justice," in INTRODUCTION TO THE LAW OF THE UNITED STATES (David S. Clark & Turgul Ansay eds., 2d ed. 2001). Chris presented a paper and chaired a panel on "Terroryzm a Demokracja" at a conference on Penal Responsibility in Liberal Democratic Systems in Warsaw, Poland in September. His paper will be published in Jus et Lex (Warsaw) in 2003. In April, he presented "Terrorism and Anti-Terrorism" at the 2002 District Conference of the U.S. District Court for the District of Nevada, in Reno.

Chris Bryant and Carl Tobias have had two articles accepted for publication: "Quirin Revisited," which will appear in the Wisconsin Law Review next year, and "Youngstown Revisited," which will appear in the Hastings Constitutional Law Quarterly later this year. Chris and Carl will present the Quirin article at a symposium at the University of Wisconsin Law School in November. Chris's article "Stopping Time: The Pro-Slavery and 'Irrevocable' Thirteenth Amendment," was also accepted for publication in the Harvard Journal of Law & Public Policy. "Retroactive Application of 'New Rules' and the Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act," forthcoming in the George Washington Law Review, is at press. In August, Chris taught for three days at the State's first annual "We the People" summer institute, part of a nationwide civic education program for middle and high school students established by the Burger Commission on the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. At the August institute held at Lake Tahoe, Chris taught middle and high school teachers from across Nevada.

Jay Bybee, currently on leave and serving as Assistant Attorney General for the Office of Legal Counsel, has been nominated by President Bush to the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals.

Martin Geer presented "Protection of Female Prisoners: Dissolving Standards of Decency" in March at a University of Maryland School of Law symposium on the "Experience of Women Inmates in the Twenty-First Century." His paper will be published in Margins, an interdisciplinary publication on race, religion, gender, and class. Marty also has a book chapter at press: Martin Geer & Nadia de Araujo, International Law in U.S. and Brazilian Courts, in LIBERTY E LIBERDADE: CITIZENS AND JUSTICE IN BRAZIL AND THE UNITED STATES (Nadia de Araujo et al. eds. 2002).

Doug Grant's article "Interstate Water Allocation Compacts: When the Virtue of Permanence Becomes the Vice of Inflexibility" is forthcoming in the University of Colorado Law Review.

Joan Howarth's article "Executing White Masculinities: Lessons from Karla Faye Tucker" has been accepted for publication by the Oregon Law Review. In September, Joan presented a paper on gays and lesbians on death row entitled "We Are Everywhere: Condemning Homosexuality," at a conference on Law and Sexuality: Assimilation and Resistance. Both pieces are part of a larger project investigating the intersections of capital punishment and gender.

Steve Johnson was recently named the E.L. Wiegand Professor of Law. Steve has several forthcoming articles: "Why Craft Isn't Scary," has been accepted for publication in the Real Property, Probate & Trust Journal; "The Precept that Tax Penalties Should be Strictly Construed," will be published in the Nevada Law Journal in 2003; and "Employer Tax Liability for Employees' Tips: Fior D'Italia" will be published in the Nevada Lawyer in November 2002. Steve was a panelist on "Recent Supreme Court Tax Collection Decisions – Young and Craft," at the ABA Section of Taxation Individual Income Tax Committee meeting in Washington, DC in May. In October, Steve was a panelist on "Recent Developments in Federal Tax Collection: Bankruptcy and Nonbankruptcy," and spoke on the "Consequences of the Supreme Court Decision in Fior D'Italia," at the ABA Section of Taxation Individual Tax Committee meeting in Los Angeles. Steve also spoke on "Taxpayer Rights in Dealing with the IRS" at a UNLV University Forum in Las Vegas in October. Steve was interviewed on "Las Vegas One" television in September and has been interviewed and quoted in several articles for Tax Notes, a leading national tax publication. Steve's work was also cited by the U.S. Supreme Court in United States v. Craft, 122 S. Ct 1414, 1424 (2002).

Kay Kindred's article "Of Child Welfare and Welfare Reform: The Implications for Children When Contradictory Policies Collide" has been accepted for publication by the William and Mary Journal of Women and the Law. Kay continues work on her reader, Selected Problems of Children and Society, to be published by West.

Kate Kruse participated in a panel discussion entitled “Multicultural Students/Multicultural Clients” at the AALS Conference on Clinical Legal Education in Pittsburgh in May. She is currently serving on the planning committee for the AALS 2003 Workshop on Clinical Legal Education, which will be held in Vancouver in May 2003.

Mary LaFrance’s article “Nevada’s Employee Inventions Statute: Novel, Nonobvious, and Patently Wrong” has been accepted for publication in the Nevada Law Journal. Mary is also working on a new edition of her casebook, DAVID L. LANGE, MARY LAFRANCE & GARY MYERS, INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY: CASES & MATERIALS (West 2d ed. forthcoming 2003).

Bob Lawless is the Southeastern Bankruptcy Law Institute Visiting Professor of Law for 2002-03, spending one week in residence each semester at the Georgia State University College of Law. Bob recently attended the annual meeting for the National Conference of Bankruptcy Judges in Chicago and participated in the editorial board meeting for the American Bankruptcy Law Journal. Bob has also accepted an invitation to present “A Scholarly Voice in Two Keys” at the upcoming Association of American Law Schools annual meeting in Washington, DC. Bob was recently quoted in an article in the San Jose Mercury News about Global Crossing.

Ann McGinley attended the ABA Annual Meeting in Washington, DC in August to participate in a two-day meeting of senior editors of the book Alternative and Other Contingent Work Arrangements, which is sponsored by the ABA Section of Labor and Employment Law and will be published by BNA in 2003. Ann is also the author of a chapter in the book entitled “Equal Employment Opportunity Laws and Alternative Work Arrangements.” Also in August, Ann spoke in a Roundtable on Employment Law Issues with the Honorable Robert Johnston, a federal magistrate and a representative of the Nevada Equal Rights Commission. The Roundtable was presented by Patrick Hicks of Hicks and Walt and was attended by attorneys and personnel directors in the greater Las Vegas area. Ann and Chris Bryant have been working with and advising the attorneys for the Respondent in Department of Human Resources v. Hibbs, a case to be decided this term by the U.S. Supreme Court, dealing with whether the Eleventh Amendment bars the enforcement of the Family Medical Leave Act against the State of Nevada.

Bruce Markell’s article “Slouching Towards Fairness: A Reply to the ABCNY’s Proposal on Unfair Discrimination,” has been accepted for publication in The Business Lawyer. His article “Court History and Court Process: The Unconstitutionality of Nevada’s Asset Protection Trusts,” based upon his inaugural lecture as the Doris S. and Theodore B. Lee Professor of Law, will appear in a forthcoming issue of the Nevada Law Journal. In September, Bruce participated on and provided materials for two panels – “Current Developments” and “Small Business Bankruptcies” – at the American Bankruptcy Law Institute’s Southwestern Bankruptcy Law Institute in Las Vegas. Earlier this month, Bruce attended the annual National Conference of Bankruptcy Judges in Chicago, at which he participated on panels discussing the Doctrine of Necessity in Chapter 11 cases and current developments in securitization. While there, Bruce also attended the semi-annual meeting the Board of Editors for Collier on Bankruptcy. On October 7th, Bruce presented a paper at the University of Hong Kong entitled “Common Law Restrictions on Workouts in the United States with Some Comments on the Changchun Approach,” as part of a day-long seminar at the University of Hong Kong sponsored by the Asian Institute of International Financial Law entitled “Corporate Rescue in China: Chinese and Comparative Perspectives.” On October 9th, Bruce presented another paper, entitled “The Priority Provisions of the UNCITRAL Convention on the Assignment of Receivables in International Trade,” at the Academics meeting of INSOL International in Beijing, and was asked to chair the next meeting of INSOL in Las Vegas next year. Later this month, Bruce will present a report on the bankruptcy implications of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 at the annual meeting of the National Bankruptcy Conference, a voluntary organization of the nation’s leading bankruptcy and insolvency practitioners, judges, and academics, in Washington, DC. Bruce serves as vice-chair of their Legislative Committee. Bruce continues his distance learning lecture series on Advanced Issues in International Bankruptcy to four universities in Indonesia (the University of Indonesia in Jakarta, the University of Diponegoro in Semarang, the Universitas Sumatera Utara in Medan, and the Gadjah Mada University in Yogyakarta). At least twenty graduate students participate in this interactive video course at each of the four locations.

Pam Mohr spoke on a panel at the October Rocky Mountain Regional Clinical Conference on the issue of interdisciplinary team work in the law clinic.

Dean Richard Morgan presided over September’s dedication ceremonies for William S. Boyd Hall and the James E. Rogers Center for Administration and Justice – collectively, the new home for the Boyd School of Law. Dick was joined on the dais by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Anthony M. Kennedy, UNLV President Carol C. Harter, UCCSN Regents Chair Douglas Seastrand, and benefactors William S. Boyd and James E. Rogers, without whose generosity and hard work this law school would not exist. Dick has been interviewed recently on a number of local TV programs, including “Las Vegas One,” “The Ed Bernstein Show,” and “Academic Café.”

Ngai Pindell’s article “Is There Hope for HOPE VI?: Community Economic Development and Localism,” has been accepted for publication in the Connecticut Law Review.

Keith Rowley’s article “Civil Liability and Remedies in Ohio Securities Transactions,” with Thomas E. Geyer and Michael A. Miglets, is forthcoming in the University of Cincinnati Law Review. His article “You Asked For It, You Got It ... Toy Yoda: Practical Jokes and the Law of Contracts,” has been accepted for publication in the Nevada Law Journal. Keith continues work on the first of two volumes of the Revised Edition of Corbin on Contracts, which will be published in 2003. He is also serving as an editorial consultant to LexisNexis on their new Questions & Answers line of study aids, and is writing the Contracts title for the series. Keith recently completed his first CALI lesson: “Anticipatory Repudiation and Assurances of Performance,” which is now available on the CALI website (www.cali.org).

Jeff Stempel’s article “Fuzziness, Forgetfulness, Fairness, Freedom, and Functionality in Dispute Resolution” is forthcoming in the Nevada Law Journal. Jeff spoke on “The Attorney-Client Privilege and Current Issues in Legal Ethics” to the Clark County Bar Association in July. In September, Jeff spoke to the Annual Meeting of the International Association of Gaming Attorneys, in San Diego, on “Legal Ethics for the Gaming Attorney.” In October, Jeff presented a Lionel Sawver & Collins Legal Workshop entitled “An Overview of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and its Implications for Lawyers.” Jeff is currently working on the Third Edition of Principles of Insurance Law, with co-authors Peter Nash Swisher and Emeric Fischer.

Bobbie Studwell is currently serving as Chair of the American Association of Law Libraries’s Special Committee to Develop Performance Measurements for Law Librarians. Shortly before relocating to Las Vegas, Bobbie spoke at the dedication of the Thomas E. Brennan Law Library at the Thomas M. Cooley Law School. She also attended the AALL’s annual meeting and conference in Orlando.

David Tanenhaus’s review of VICTORIA GETIS, THE JUVENILE COURT & THE PROGRESSIVES (2000), is forthcoming in the Law & History Review. His article “‘Owing to the extreme youth of the accused’: The Changing Legal Response to Juvenile Homicide,” written with Steven A. Drizin, is forthcoming in the Journal of Criminal Law & Criminology. David recently served as a panelist for a session entitled “What Do We Learn From Youth Policy?,” at the one-day symposium “A Century of Juvenile Justice,” based on the recently published book of the same title David edited with Margaret K. Rosenheim, Franklin E. Zimring, and Bernardine Dohrn. The Children and Family Justice Center of the Bluhm Legal Clinic at Northwestern University School of Law and the School of Social Service Administration at the University of Chicago co-sponsored the symposium, which was made possible through a generous grant from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation.

Carl Tobias’s article “Sixth Circuit Judicial Selection” has been accepted for publication by the UC-Davis Law Review. Carl’s article “The Expiration of the Civil Justice Reform Act of 1990,” will appear in the next issue of the Washington & Lee Law Review. In addition to his two articles forthcoming with Chris Bryant, Carl Tobias and Andrew Spalding (class of 2003) submitted a white paper, entitled “Civil Justice and Judicial Selection,” to the American Bar Association Commission on the Twenty-First Century Judiciary. Carl serves as a legal consultant to the Commission.
